DAILY FASHION HINTS.

MISSSES' OR LADIES' STOCKS.

This is the time of the year when stocks take up the attention of the prudent woman who has already commenced making her Christmas presents. We all realize that it is just these clever little touches that give the girl her smart, up-to-date appearance. One would be surprised to see the distinction a dainty stock gives to a gown that is not fashionable either in cut or color. For a dainty little gift for the girl or friends who live outside the city, and thus, unable to get in touch with these little fads and fancies that show the trend of fashion, a set of stocks will be most gratefully appreciated.

The designs shown here include all that is newest, and are so arranged as to be entirely different in style and material. The one with long lace for made in pique, wearing a brooch, pearl or fancy style, but to truly smart girls must be plain with either flared or plaited skirts, which are just one inch from the ground.

Short models, as we have known them, have no place in present styles. The fancy style, but to truly smart girls must be plain with either flared or plaited skirts, which are just one inch from the ground.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

—BY— Harry Tucker.

Dan Marble and Frank Johnson went out to shoot a duck; They had the foreleg of a rabbit, which they carried round for luck. "You take the bag," said Frank, "and I'll take the gun," said Dan, And they trudged along out to the woods like a regular hunting man. They thought they'd take a dog along, but they couldn't find a pup. So they went off by themselves, and gave that idea up.

Ere long they reached a forest, with trees as big as that. And Frank said to Danny, "this is where the ducks are at." They looked at the branches; they looked behind the stumps. But they didn't see a ducklet, and they said: "We are two chumps." "I once read in a book," said Frank, "that ducks grew up in trees. That they flopped around in bunches. Just like a hive of bees." "And I read too," said Danny "that you caught them with a net. We got to take a few ducks back, or we will lose a lot."

They went up to a farmer's house and handed him a V— "If you give us two ducklets, how happy we will be." When they got to the city, their friends all gathered round. To see what Dan and Frank out in the county found. "We told you we were shooters," said Frank with a wink at Dan. "Go out yourself one day and try to beat it if you can."

Again, we wish to say to our multitude of friends that if we do not show up on the foot long route as usual tomorrow, that we have been maimed, disabled, disfigured or killed in the foot-ball game. We have been to the expense of purchasing a suitable chrysanthemum from Billy Mann, a cane from Levy & Jacobs, and some colors from Miller & Rhoads. Therefore, we are in a position to be skirted of the season's first foot long wins. If the full moon don
